BROADWAY STORE ENTERED DURING MORNING HOURS

Burglars Take $90 in Cash and Number of Watches; but Leave Clews Which May Lead to Arrest

Burglars sometime between 10:00 o'clock Wednesday night and eight o'clock the next morning, entered the Redwood City branch of Montgomery Ward through a broken skylight and escaped with $90 in cash as well as a large number of watches.

A check-up of the burglary disclosed that eight men's watches and six ladies' watches. The watches taken were described as four men's 15-jewel white gold; 2 men's 15-jewel green gold; 1 lady's Waltham 14-jewel wrist watch; 1 lady's Elgin 14-jewel wrist watch; 2 ladies' 14-jewel wrist watches; 2 men's Illinois 17-jewel watches; 1 man's green gold watch; and a lady's green gold wrist watch.

The robbery was investigated by the police who discovered a number of clews which they believe will result in tracing the two men who are believed to have been responsible for the robbery.

Menlo Park Man Takes Own Life

Poor Health Claimed To Have Cause of Suicide

The body of Burton W. Spence, salesman for the Toyon Motor Co., Menlo Park, was found lying underneath his automobile in a field just off Bay Road, near the United States Veterans' Hospital about 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Spence was lying on his back with his mouth close to the exhaust pipe. The ignition of the car was on and the gas tank was empty. A half filled bottle of poison was found in the rear seat of the machine.

Spence left two notes, one saying: "I am doing this on account of ill health. Please notify Redwood City Lodge No. 1112, Loyal Order of Moose," and the other addressed to the Moose lodge, which read: "I am sorry to place this burden on you. I am doing this on account of my health. Please send my wife to Mooseheart, and God have mercy upon my soul." Mooseheart is the home maintained by the Moose near Chicago, Ill., for widows and orphans of the lodge.

The body was discovered by a passerby, who telephoned the Palo Alto police, who in turn telephoned the sheriff's office in this city. Sheriff James J. McGrath and Deputy Sheriffs Maloney and John Simkins, with Deputy Coroner John E. Layng, hastened to the scene and after determining that the case was one of suicide, removed the body to Layng & Tinney Funeral Home in this city. An inquest will be held Tuesday morning.

Spence is survived by his wife. He had been a resident of Menlo Park and vicinity for the past six or seven years, and according to a card found in his pocket had evidenty at one time been employed by the Alaska Railroad Company at Anchor, Alaska.

The funeral arrangements have not yet been made.

County's Milk Supply Shows High Rating

Surprise Test on All Dairies Shows High Standard of Milk Sold

The milk supply of San Mateo county was recently scored by the State Department of Agriculture cooperating with the San Mateo county milk inspector. Samples from all dairies selling milk within the county were collected without previous warning. Tests ran on these samples were used in scoring each dairy or distributor. The average score on a valume basis is 95.1% which indicates a high quality milk supply for this district.

Dr. F. Holmes Smith, County Health Officer and J. J. Garland, milk inspector are entitled to credit for this high average score according to D. A. Cordray, State Market Milk Specialist who conducted the scoring contest.

Scientifc analysis of milk has made possible a very careful check on the care used in producing and handling milk. Tests for milk fat, solids other than fat, sediment, bactaria count and flavor were used to establish the score for each dairy.

The results are as follows:

Grade A Pasteurized

Rating above 95% — Peninsula Creamery, Dairy Del. Co., (double cap). Golden State Co., Home Dairy, Dairy Delivery Co., Standard Milk Co., Millbrae Dairy, Del Monte Witt Dairy.

Rating 90 to 95%—Peoples Dairy, Vera Dairy, Dairyland Creamery, Sheehhan's Creamery, Spreckels Creamery, San Carlos Cramery, United Milk Co., Jersey Farm Dairy, Minehan Bros., Excelsior Ranch, Pacific Coast Dairy.

Order in Colma Suit Signed by Buck; Sidesteps Sitting in Trial

Outside Judge Will Hear Colma Sewer Suit Argued

The suit instituted by residents of the Colma sewer district to tie up the payments on the sewer system there, will be tried before an outside judge. The suit was started last Saturday when Harry Blecher, a property owner in the Colma sewer district, asked for a restraining order to prevent the issuance of bonds to cover the construction costs and to vacate the assessments on the district.

Judge Buck refused to sign the order, but assigned the case to Judge Franklin Swart. The latter declared that he was disqualified to sign the order, since before his appointment as judge, and while acting as district attorney, he had at the request of the county board of supervisors rendered opinions concerning the Colma sewer assessments. The matter was referred back to Judge Buck, who then signed the temporary restraining order, but stated that he did not wish to preside at a trial of this suit. The state judicial council will be asked to assign an outside jurist to sit in this matter.

Blecher in filing the suit stated that he was a member of the Colma Sewer Association, whose members were "too numerous to mention." In his suit he named as defendants the county of San Mateo, the county board of supervisors, County Treasurer Harry Jenkins, County Engineer James S. James, and J. W. Tobin, the contractor in the sewer job. Blecher charges that in the $2500 incidental expenses included in the assessment the sum of $3,767 is illegally included.

The Colma sewer matter has been one which has been causing considerable friction in the northern part of the county for several months. When the matter was brought before the board of supervisors for approval of the assessment roll, James S. James, county surveyor, refused to sign the assessment rolls, claiming that the incidental expenses connected with the engineering were too high.

At a later meeting of the board the engineering problems connected with the work were explained by the engineer in charge, and later the bord ordered the county surveyor to sign the rolls as prepared, and ordered the issuance of the bonds. The present suit is a result of this action.

Plaintiff Must Pay Jury's Fees

When neither the plaintiff nor his attorney appeared in Judge Swart's court Wednesday morning when a jury trial had been set, Judge Swart ordered the latter to pay the county $112 to cover the expense of convening a jury to hear the case. The matter set for hearing was the suit of Erick Erickson Vs. Edward George, and when the plaintiff failed to make an appearance in court after the venire had been called for a jury, Judge Swart assessed the court costs to the plaintiff, and reset the case for trial on October 12.

Highway Work Increased Jobs 150 Per Cent

Report Made on Emergency Projects by States and United States

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8—(UP)—Emergency work on state and federal highway projects increased employment in such work by more than 150 per cent in seven months, according to Thomas H. MacDonald, chief of the Bureau of Public Roads of the Department of Agriculture.

Discussing the $80,000,000 advance fund made available last December by Congress, MacDonald said that within five months the fund, together with $160,000,000 regular federal aid and state funds, had been put to work on new projects. The states also continued construction and maintenance programs from state funds.

July 1, according to MacDonald, the total active federal aid program, including emergency and state funds amounted to about $447,500,000.

"Starting with a total of 148,600 employed on the state and federal highway programs in January," he said, "there was a rapid increase as weather conditions permitted. In May the total passed 300,000, for July it was 386,659, and the August preliminary figure was 384,000."

MacDonald pointed out, however, that these figures did not represent the sum total of labor stimulation growing out of he emergency work. The road dollar, he said, "spreads back through stone quarries, sand and gravel plants, cement factories, petroleum fields and refineries, mines, engages rail and water transportation facilities, and keeps the wheels of equipment and accessory factories turning."

Services Held For Zinna Farr

Funeral services were held yesterday afternoon for Zinna Frances Farr, 10-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Farr, of Daly City, who died at the Community hospital Tuesday after a long illness. R. R. Commission Hits S. F. Water Supply in County

Water Supplied Hillsborough Declared to be Unfit for Domestic Use

Concluding an investigation started upon its own motion following continued complaints as to water conditions in Hillsborough, the Railroad Commission has issued an order directing the Hillsborough Water Company to proceed at once with the installation and operation of filtration facilities providing for the filtration of the entire supply of the Water Department of the City of San Francisco. The order requires the installation to be completed and in operation in a manner satisfactory to the Railroad Commission within 60 days.

The opinion supports the contention of the consumers, who at the hearing filed by the Railroad Commission "testified that they had suffered severe inconvenience and hardship resulting from the poor quality of the water and that it was absolutely unfit for drinking and other domestic uses, such as bathing and laundry purposes, and that furthermore repeated appeals to the company for some measure of relief had been unheeded and they had been obliged to appeal to the Railroad Commission for relief."

The situation with reference to water conditions at Hillsborough is discussed in an opinion of the Railroad Commission, written by Commissiner Fred G. Stevenot, as follows:

"The evidence shows that the turbidity in the water supplied to complainants can be remedied in only two ways: one, through securing a substitutional water supply of satisfactory quality and acceptable for all domestic purposes and, the other, through filtration of the present water supply secured form the Water Department of the City of San Francisco. There are no such substitutional supplies available at this time and if improvement in quality is to be had, filtration of the present supply will be necessary. Two alternate plans and estimates of cost for filtering the water were presented at the hearing, one based upon filtration of water containing a minor degree of turbidity, and the other for filtration of the supply where a high turbidity exists. The estimated cost of the installation in accordance with these plans are approximately $13,500, and $21,500, respectively. Additional costs will be incurred in the operation and maintenance of the filtration equipment but no estimate was submitted in this connection.

Careful consideration has been given to all the elements involved in this proceeding, including the uncertainties of the probable duration of the period during which the turbid water will be received from the Water Department of the City of San Francisco and it is our opinion that filters should be installed to remedy the present objectionable condition of the water.

It is incumbent upon a public utility to render sufficient and adequate service to its consumers and provide a potable water supply for human consumption. The evidence herein shows that Hillsborough Water Company has not fulfilled its obligations in this respect. It is therefore recommended that the Hillsborough Water Company be ordered to proceed at once to install the necessary filtration equipment to remove the objectionable turbidity."

Farm Survey Shows 18,620 Hogs on 74 Ranches in County

SACRAMENTO, October 8—(UP)—The hog population of California is increasing.

This was disclosed by a report of the United States census bureau, which gave this state a total of 647,791 hogs and 219,637 pigs born in the 3-month period before the census ended.

The census gave San Mateo county a total of 18,620 hogs, from reports submitted by 74 farms.

The number of hogs on European countries are also larger than last year, and the United States exports of hog products this year were the smallest in more than 30 years, George A. Scott, federal-state livestock statistician reported.

"Although hog prices are much lower than last year, they have declined relatively less than feed prices," Scott said. "The ratio of hog prices to feed prices, therefore, is somewhat higher than a year ago."

Hog slaughter in the hog marketing year beginning with October, 1930, was the smallest in 4 years and apparently marked the end of a cycle in market supplies which began with 1926-27 and reached its peak in 1928-29, it was pointed out. The first evidence of expansion in hog production since 1927 was revealed by the June, 1931, pig survey.

"Hog producers in making their production and marketing plans need to consider not only the changes taking place in total volume of production but also the factors which influence the season distribution of marketings," Scott continued. "The distribution during the winter season is determined largely by (1) the relationship between hog prices and feed prices and (2) the trend of hog prices during the preceding year.

"Low prices of feed and indications of a much larger corn crop than last year along with a restricted credit supply available for expanding cattle and sheep feeding operations are the principal factors which have caused hog producers to make plans for expanding hog production this year."

COUNTRY HAILS PLAN PROPOSED BY HOOVER AS DEPRESSION AID

Business Men Acclaim Move by President As Constructive Step Toward Better Business Conditions

CHICAGO, Oct. 8—(UP) — Mid-Western bankers, merchants, businessmen and railroad executives joined today in general praise of President Herbert Hoover's plan pointing to the revival of industry.

Some of the comment from the leaders on the plan follows:

Gov. Louis L. Emmerson, of Illinois: "For one I shall be glad to do all I can to help make it a success. The remedy it proposes must be practical and efficacious judging from the universal approval."

Arthur Reynolds, chairman of the billion dollar Continental Illinois Bank: "The plan seems to be similar to the Aldrich-Vreeland plan of 1911, in which clearing groups were to be used. It should help restore confidence which is a good part of what is required to push us over the hill."

William Wrigley, Jr., manufacturer: "It's a grand thing for business. I think it means a combination of a month's hard work and good common sense. We already have everything else but confidence."

D. F. Kelly, president of the Fair Department Store: "I consider it the best thing that has been done in two years."

J. L. Kraft, president of the Kraft-Phoenix Cheese Company: "The President has led the way into a new consciousness of national security. Now is the time for us to act like American citizens."

Elmer T. Stevens, president of Chas. A. Stevens & Bros., Department Store: "We are enthusiastic about it. The country has been suffering with exaggerated, unreasoning fear. The plan opens the door for prosperity."

H. G. Clark, vice president of the Rock Island Railroad: "General adoption of the plan should stabilize the banking and credit situation and will have a most beneficial result in the business situation in our western territory."

Henry A. Scandrett, president Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific: "The plan gives great encouragement to those who are working toward the revival of industrial activity."

F. G. Bonfils, publisher of the Denver Post was critical of the plan. He said:

"In proposing a new national credit corporation with a capitalization of one-half billion dollars as a cure for business depression, President Hoover is running true to form. He has but one remedy for every governmental or economic ailment —organize a new commission. In judging the efficacy of the new Hoover credit corporation scheme, the people of the west are Missourians—they have to be shown."

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 8—(UP)—President Hoover's plan for a huge banking pool brought favorable comment from local financial leaders today.

Some of the comments:

Max Socha, vice president of the National Bank of Commerce: "Excellent. I wish it had been proposed a year ago so that we would have it by now. I do feel, though, that such a banking group should not be centered in New York, but extended over the country."

A. M. Chaffey, chairman of the Board of Directors of the California Bank and president of the Los Angeles Clearing House Association: "In the absence of detailed information, it is very difficult to make definite statements, but at first glance I should say it had every earmark of being constructive. As the local Federal Reserve District is in the best condition of any in the country, I believe that such a huge banking institution is unnecessary except from the standpoint of defunct banks."

Victor Rosetti, vice president Farmers and Merchants National Bank: "I believe that the general conditions of such a proposal will be accepted by bankers generally."

Kiwanis Club In District Meet

Hundreds of Kiwanians from Division Two, including the clubs from about the San Francisco bay district, gathered at the Benjamin Franklin hotel in San Mateo Tuesday noon for an inter-club luncheon meeting and again in the evening for a division dinner. The division was honored at the evening gathering in having as guest the International President of Kiwanis, William O. Harris of Los Angeles, who during the meeting gave an inspirational address on solving the major fundamental problems of the organization. Governor Don B. Rice of the California-Nevada district and District Secretary Fred Kistemann, as well as Past Governors George Filmer of San Francisco and Wendell Thomas of San Jose, were present. Lieutenant-Governor Al Cargill of Burlingame presided at the evening gathering. Honored guests were Mayor C. A. Buck of Burlingame, Mayor A. R. Cotton of San Mateo, and Mayor D. R. Stafford of Redwood City.

One of the important features of the evening program was the holding of the annual Kiwanis Forum. Thirteen out of the fourteen clubs in the division were represented in the contest and the judges after a long conference finally declared Paul Rieger of the North Oakland club the winner. Rieger will compete at the district convention in Pasadena next month. Gordon Seely represented the Redwood City club in the Forum.

Arthur Strehlow of the Alameda club was nominated for lieutenant-governor of the district to succeed Al Cargill of Burlingame, whose term expires at the end of the year. Strehlow's name will be submitted for election at the district convention in Pasadena.

At the noon luncheon, which was in charge of Harry Peckham of the Burlingame-San Mateo club and Arthur Strehlow of the Alameda club, Francis H. Boland of Oakland was the speaker. "A United California and the Duty of Kiwanis" was the subject of the address.

In the afternoon a golf tournament, baseball, horse shoe contests and cards were held at the Crystal Springs Golf Club. Governor Don B. Rice was awarded first prize in the golf tournament for the best low gross score.

At the noon luncheon President Sam Winklebleck of the Redwood City club presented the George Filmer trophy cup to the Burlingame-San Mateo club. The cup was awarded Division Two for the largest representation at the district convention in Oakland last year.

Redwood City was well represented at both the luncheon and evening meetings. Charles G. Lambert, song leader for the local club, assisted in the leading of the singing at the evening gathering.

Feeding Five Hounds

Here is a purported confession of a West Tennessee man that is entirely too good not to pass along:

There seems to be so much talk about our so-called prosperity I believe 'tis my duty to write my views on same and help to analize the situation as far as possible so's we can make up our minds that we had auto change our ways of living and so forth.

I have taken my own case for instance. I see my mistakes and many others have acted likewise. I bought a car instead of a farm and it is worn out, but the farm I figured on is still O. K. I invested in a radio instead of a cow and the radio gives static instead of milk.

I am feeding five hounds which answer to the names of Red, Red Wing, Slobber, Jake and Bayrum—instead of five pigs. I had our piano tuned instead of the well cleaned out. I spent all my cash in 1928 and used my credit in 1929 and traded up my future wages on installments in 1930, so hard times caught me in bad shape last fall. If I had spent my last $10 for flour and meat instead of gas and oil, I would have been O. K. I built a nice garage last year instead of covering my barn and I loafed in a mountain two weeks instead of being in my pasture fixing it so's my cow won't get out, but she is dry and mortgaged to boot for two blankets my wife bought from an agent instead of paying the preacher.

cash. I am tied to the end of my rope and cash. I am tied teo the end of my rope and the man I am working for is busted on account of nobody would not pay him and his cotton won't sell 'cause nobody won't buy no cotton clothes, all the gals wear silk stockings and silk underclothes right here in our cotton patches. I had $4 saved up for a rainy day, but it turned dry and I spent the $4 for two inner tubes.

I tried hard to make both ends meet with a turnip patch, but when I got turnips ready to sell, everybody was selling turnips for nothing and the market was glutted. I am worried plum to the bone and my wife's kinfolks are coming over next Tuesday to spend two weeks.

Write or phone if you hear of any relief from the government coming down my way. I am willing to be a Democrat or a Republican for a few weeks if that will help any.

American Education Is Best

Emil Ludwig, famous German historian, has decided that American colleges are the best in the world. And to prove it, he is going to send his son, now only eight years old, to one of them.

"As a matter of fact," he writes in the American Magazine, my plan is to send him first for two years of study to a German or Swiss university, where he will build a solid foundation of clasical culture, which gives to a youth a trend toward high idealism and right thinking. In those schools, too, he will take unto himself protective antitoxins against certain dangers that threaten in America. For if a 20-year-old European goes to America unprepared for what awaits him there, he will be drawn into the vortex of incredible tumult, and its confusion may well overwhelm him."

The heaviness of the German nature, brought into sudden contact with the lightness of the American, inclines toward a loss of balance which may be more than temporary, Papa Ludwig feels.

Why then does he wish to send his son to an American college? "The first reason," he says, "is that learning in America is a cheerful and happy thing. Next, the wide gap between teacher and pupil has been bridged in America, and there exists a splendid comradeship, without lack of respect. Because of this, there have arisen between teacher and pupil a cordial affection and mutual confidence.

"Moreover, American colleges have a competitive system, which awakens in the student the ardent desire to prove himself as among the foremost. Still another merit of study in America is the great variety of races which have come together in close and friendly communion. All together they are building a new race. National and racial hatreds are amost unknown.

"In America my son will understand that the people of all nations are equal and have equal rights. He will learn tolerance and understanding. In our schools he would be surrounded by disquieting talk about parties, world-power, revenge, hate against other nations. The wish for power, among American fellow students, will not express itself in terms of the wish of the butcher. Living with youth in America, my son will learn that money is better than war, that peace is better than money, and that health and love of his fellows are better than anything else."

He is well balanced whose mind is centered on God.—William A. Engle.

"Let Us Go To Hell"

Now, Mr. Preacher, before you commence to criticize us, before you say we are indulging in profanity in our caption, you just listen to the story because it happens to be true and you have our permission to use it as a text for one of your good sermons.

The young man told us this himself as a something that happened to his father. He said for no reason he could ever figure out, his father went out one morning and hitched himself up with a steer, with the idea of doing a little cultivating. The young man was in the barnyard at the end of a lane and pretty soon he heard his father yell, "Stop us, Eddie! Stop us, Eddie!" The steer was running away with father and, of course, said the son, there was no chance of stopping them. The boy said as they passed him his father turned his head and said, "Never mind, Eddie, let us go to Hell!"

There are altogether too many business men in this country now who have hitched themselves up with fear, altogether too many who say "Nothing like this has happened before" and "The world is simply going to the bow-wows."

Well, all right! If anybody insists upon killing his business and ruining himself financially and physically, he may go to it. Nobody can stop him. But, praises be to Allah!—there are left a host of business men who still have faith in the Almighty, themselves and their Uncle Sam. Those men, through courage and by hard work, are proving that the laws of compensation and reaction are as provable today as they have been through all of the previous depressions through which we have passed and come out on top.

If "though-waves" are scientific, and they are, please bear in mind that we are pulling for your success.

Not A Saving

Recently, in a southern state, fire insurance companies found that certain risks were unprofitable. There upon they applied to the Insurance Commission of the state for rate increases to make the risks pay their own way. The application was denied.

On first glance, it will seem that the commission has saved the public money. And so it has in premiums. But these small savings may be wiped out hundreds of times over by a fire. For the insurance companies will simply stop writing the undesirable risks, and the property owners will have to be self-insurers. As the Insurance Field says, "Insurance companies can always avoid losses by avoiding dangerous risks, but the State and the people composing it cannot avoid owning the very risks that wise companies refuse to insure."

Here is a fact that should be thoroughly understood. An insurance company, like any other business must make a profit. If it continued to handle a great many risks at a loss it would eventually find itself in bankruptcy. So, unless it is given rates commensurate with the risk, it is forced to discontinue policies.

The average owner of uninsured property cannot replace it when it is destroyed by fire. The work of a lifetime may be wiped out over night. Jobs and businesses are lost, and the state suffers through loss of taxes. The dollars that are saved in insurance premiums cannot compensate for the ever-present danger that those property owners face.

In Times of Depression

In times of economic depression assistance is readily given to philanthropic organizations engaged in family relief. Even though a man is unemployed he must be fed, clothed and housed. But while help is generously given to family relief organizations that does not mean that support should be withdrawn from altruistic organizations described as character-building in their objectives. In times of business distress it is imperative that these organizations carry on.

The raising of funds for philanthropic purposes in many cities is entrusted to a community chest organization. These organizations are now focusing on family relief activities and in some instances have asked certain character-building societies to retrench.

Boys' clubs have been established in more than 150 cities serving more than 250,000 boys and are placing underprivileged youngsters in wholesome surroundings. A reduction in juvenile delinquency is invariably the result.

Even in times like these it would be most unfortunate if any boys' club suffered because of lack of adequate financial support. The clubs have seen the depression throw upon them an added burden. They should be enabled to carry on.

No Place for Trucks

Members of the Ohio Public Utilities commission recently took an action which should win it the gratitude of motorists all over the country. It denied two trucking firms the right to operate over the main lake shore highway—United States 20—which connects the middlewest with the east, on the ground that that highway holds all the traffic it can handle already.

It might be a good thing if other official bodies would copy this ruling. After all, the highways were paved primarily for the pleasure car motorist. Paying passengers and freight were transported about the country very well before motor bus and truck were invented, and the railroads are far from overburdened with business. When traffic on any highway gets too heavy for comfort, it is time to cut down the number of commercial vehicles that use it.

GAY ADVENTURERS
BY MILDRED BARBOUR

But this time the manager regarded him with open suspicion and hostility, and nothing that Dr. Mac could say moved him.

CONCERNING THE ACTION AND CHARACTERS

SHEILA ALLEN, bound for Europe in a tourist cabin, has a cabinmate.

CONSTANCE KERR, a millionaire's daughter, who is her twin in looks. Sheila, after years in a rural town, is seeking adventure.

She has refused to marry her guardian, YOUNG DOCTOR MALCOM BAXTER. Constance tells Sheila she is Heaven-sent-a means of escape from a terrible mess.

Constance is fleeing from her husband, THE COUNT DE BELLEFONTE, whom she married that morning.

She consented to marry him after a quarrel with HARRY EDMONDS, with whom she is desperately in love.

His letters begging her forgiveness are kept from her by her mother. She finds them immediately after her marriage. Realizing that she can never be the Count's wife, she takes passage for Europe at once. Harry is in England.

She begs Sheila to impersonate her in Paris for a few days, while she seeks Harry in London, to try to find a way out of her muddle.

Sheila, scenting adventure agrees.

Constance gives Sheila her clothes and coaches her for the role she is to play. A first-class passenger.

TOMMY FITZGERALD, an old beau of Constance's, sees Sheila and hails her as Constance. Sheila tells him he has made a mistake.

At Southampton Constance leaves the ship as Sheila Allen, with all of Sheila's effects, including her passport.

At Harve, Fitzgerald sees Sheila with Constance's passport and she says she is the heiress, and explains the tourist passage as payment of a bet. A strange woman embraces her as an old friend.

There she receives a message from the Count, who is in Paris.

Harry Edmonds arrives in Paris. Sheila is panic-stricken. She wonders where Constance is.

To escape both Harry and the informs her aunt in Baden-Baden that her neice is ill. The aunt radios Mr. Kerr, who radios Sheila that he is coming to Paris.

She succeeds in convising Aunt Sophia that her presence is not required in Paris. A message from Mr. Kerr tells that the his yacht is disabled and that he cannot come to Paris for some time.

Harry urges her to marry him immediately. She puts him off.

The Baronne is angry, for she wants a clear field for her stepson, CARLO, whom she is anxious to marry off.

To keep Harry pacified, Sheila agrees to announcing their engagement shortly.

Harry denies this and the Count challenges him to a duel.

Sheila, in desperation, to prevent the duel, confesses that she is not Constance Kerr.

Thecount sends for Constance's aunt, stying that she will know her own niece. The old lady, on arriving, is not told what has happened, and she accepts Sheila without question.

The result is that the Count, Harry and the Baronne agree that Sheila is temporarily unbalanced.

Chapter 53—

Still In Paris

The next two days were two eternities to Dr. Mac. He was savage with impatience at having to stay in Paris when he wanted to be off to Cannes, but he had to accept the situation with good grace. Having asked the police to do everything possible to locate Sheila, he could not urge an abatement of their efforts.

He spent hours looking at photographs of persons reported missing and reading descriptions, Mentally he dubbed Paris "The Port of Missing Women," and once he asked the official who worked with him how it was possible for so many to have disappeared.

"These names come from all over the world," said the man. "Remember that millions of visitors come here yearly."

A new and disturbing thought had come to Dr. Mac. Apparently Sheila, if she was at Cannes, had made no effort to establish her own identity. That could mean only one thing, he told himself. For some reason, when Constance did not appear in Paris, Sheila was willing to continue to impersonate her. There was only one explanation of that willingness, he was sure. Sheila had fallen in love with some one in the set to which her adventure had introduced her. To admit the hoax would be fatal, and therefore she had chosen to keep it up.

Dr. Mac's spirits touched zero at this thought. It never occurred to him that Sheila had at first kept a bad bargain for the same reason that he had given only half-facts to the police fear of getting Constance into trouble by a frank explanation. And how was he to know that for weeks she had been protesting that she was not Constance Kerr and that her protestations had been ignored as the fancies of a disordered mind?

When he could stand his own thoughts no longer, he decided to write a letter to Sheila, using Constance's name. He would address it to the Villa Mora, where the detective said she was a guest. He would not say that he knew what she had been doing, but he would say that he had come to Paris and had just secceeded in locating her through some one who had seen her at Cannes.

"Then," he said to himself, "she can draw her own conclusions."

It was a very difficult letter, and he spent an evening over it. When he had posted it, he began to wonder whether Sheila would answer it. Perhaps she wouldn't want to see him and would ignore the entire matter.

The next morning there was an official-looking envelope in his mail-box. It was from the prefect of police and he ripped it open eagerly. A brief note informed him that, since nothing had been ascertained regarding the matter he had referred to the police, it would not be necessary for him to remain in Paris at this time, unless he chose to do so. If he left the city however, he was to notify the police where he could be reached, if his presence was required.

Within half an hour he had packed and bought a ticket to Cannes. Then he remembered that he had promised to keep in touch with Constance, and he scribbled a note telling her that he was leaving for Cannes, where Sheila was staying, and that she would hear from him as soon as he had seen Sheila.

Then he boarded the express and drew a breath of relief. No matter what situation he might find in Cannes, he was overjoyed at the thought of seeing Sheila once more.

He would find her greatly changed, he supposed. After weeks of living according to the standards to which Constance Kerr was accustomed, she might be thoroughly spoiled. And she was probably overwhelmed with attentions from men.

He resolutely opened a book at this point and forced himself to read every word on the page.

When he reached Cannes, he was in doubt as to what to do next. If Sheila had received his letter she might have gone away fearing that he might come to see her. If the letter hadn't reached her, his appearance might be a shock, and he didn't want to cause her distress or embarrassment.

He strolled about the town and tried to think out a course of action. Perhaps he ought to telephone the Villa Mora. He went to his hotel and asked the operator to make the call. When he took up the telephone, he was so excited that he could hardly talk. Some one who spoke indifferent English was answering his question. . . . "Mess Kerr?. . . .No. She is ill. . . . Ill . . .Can see no one." There was a faint click and then silence.

Dr. Mac walked out into the gorgeous sunshine, too depressed even to think Finally he pulled himself together and ordered a car and told the driver to take him to the Villa Mora. What he would do when he got there he didn't know. But he could not stay away, after hearing that Sheila was ill.

His car sped along over a wide, smooth road that wound through a beautiful landscape, but he hardly noticed the scenery. And, not until it was almost upon him did he see a car that was coming from the opposite direction. His driver turned aside to give it room, and then Dr. Mac looked up. Seated in the tonneau were Sheila and two men.

The car passed so quickly that Dr. Mac caught only a glimpse of her, but, while she did not look particularly happy, he noticed that she didn't look at all ill.

Divorce Fee Joke Kicks Back

RENO, Nev., Oct. 8—(UP)—When Speaker Doug Tandy introduced a measure in the 1931 session of the Nevada state legislature, purely in jest, fixing a maximum of $35 as attorney's fees, in uncontested divorce actions, he started something that has not yet stopped.

Many persons all over the nation believe the bill was passed and is the law today. Attorneys have been annoyed by that joke ever since.

When a lawyer quotes his fee of $200 or so, he is very apt to receive a very indignant reply that he has no right to charge such a fee when the law provides a maximum of $35.

Once or twice, such misinformation has accomplished disastrous results. People come here with bare expenses, figuring on a $35 divorce and learn that they have been in error about the fee.

Forest Fires Damaged 52 Million Acres

Loss Estimated at $65,968,350 By U. S. Government

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8—(UP)—Forest fires in the United States last year seared 52,000,000 acres—an area greater than that of the state of Ohio and Indiana combined—and caused approximately $65,968,350 damage.

The Forest Service of the Department of Agriculture reports however, that organized protection has proved its effectiveness, for, to every acre of protected land burned were eight acres of unprotected land. Only one-third of the country's forests are now without some kind of protection.

Total protected land burned during 1930 was 5,809,320 acres as compared with 46,457,140 acres of unprotected land.

Careless smokers caused 17,460 fires, or more than 20 per cent of the blazes.

Damage estimates do not include such inestimable damages as those to wild life, young growth and numerous intangible values. It is estimated that four per cent of the area burned will not restock itself naturally with tree growth.

The 160,000,000 acres of National Forest are protected by the Forest Service and arrangements are being made with states and private owners to co-operate resources for the protection of other private and public lands. Last year about 3,500,00 acres were added to the area under organized protection.

County Cuts Alimony Checks

DETROIT, (UP)—Alimony payments by Wayne county to wives whose husbands are in jail in default of payment, have been pared along with other public expenses. In the past the county has paid the wives of defaulting alimony dodgers at a flat rate of $14 a week, regardless of their status. Under the new sliding scale, a woman will receive from $5 to $12, depending on whether she has remarried, and the number of children she has.

HOME RUN CAUSED DEATH

CINCINNATI, O., (UP)—John D. Stovall, 36, negro, sat by his third-floor window watching a sandlot baseball game and shouting instructions and applause at the players. A batter connected for a long arching home run. Stovall's excitement caused him to lose his balance. He fell through the window to his death.

Good Teeth Seen As Best Means to Gain Good Health

SACRAMENTO, October 8—(UP)—Healthy teeth are essential to a healthy body.

Californians must remember this admonition if the state is to maintain a high health standard in the opinion of the state board of health.

In calling attention to the necessity o healthy teeth, the board presented a number of general rules which may well be followed.

"Diet plans probably the most important role in the formation and preservation of sound teeth and poor mouth hygiene encourages decay,' the board said.

For the infant human milk is the best food, but it is recommended that by the end of the first month orange juice and cod liver oil should be given daily. Vegetables and whole grain cereals should be started at five or six months.

The board calls particular attention to the fact that temporary teeth should not be neglected merely because they will "fall out anyway."

"Not only may neglect of the temporary teeth cause crowding of the permanent set, but the discomfort caused by cavities develops poor habits of mastication and loss of school time while subsequent abcesses may affect the child's general health as well," board members stated.

State health authorities claim that salt and water may be used to clean teeth as well as any "simple non-abrasive dentifrices."

"The exaggerated claims made for certain dentifrices and mouth washes, based on alleged laboratory experiments, especially as regards their antiseptic action, constitutes clever advertising and may well be disregarded. Gentle mechanical friction and rinsing of the mouth to remove food particles from the crevices of the teeth constitute the important agents in mouth hygiene."

Mrs. Mantz Gives New Zealand Talk

Reverend C. H. Stevens presided over the chicken dinner given Wednesday evening in the parlors of the First Congregational church when the rooms were filled to capacity. Mrs. Earl Rush, Mrs. Stanley Schaller and Mrs. Ralph Morrison were the committee that cooked the appetizing menu.

Mrs. Roy Hohberger, Mrs. Herman J. Phillips, Mr. Herman J. Phillips and Mr. Wilbur H. Doxsee formed a quartette that sang during the evening.

Mrs. George Hopkins, Mrs. P. W. Parmalee and Mrs. L. A. Monroe were elected delegates to the annual state Congregational convention to be held in Oakland, October 20, 21 and 22.

Following the announcements, Rev. Stevens introduced the speaker of the evening, Mrs. Anna L. Mantz, who recently returned from an eleven weeks' trip to New Zealand. Transporting her audience from America in the middle of June on nineteen-day voyage to New Zealand, they arrived at the islands in the middle of winter, the southern island being far colder than the northern island, where the climate resembles that of California.

Briefly, Mrs. Mantz said in part: New Zealand is a country of hills and high mountains with very few flat areas. The soil is volcanic, the islands being formed through eruptions, and the vegetables grown there, lacking in minerals and rather tasteless. The lime in the water is in such condition that human bodies are not able to assimilate it and the teeth of about one fifth of the young people under the age of thirty are false, and good teeth are the exception over there.

No harmful animals or poisonous growth may be found on the islands which are an all-night boat ride apart. The country is overrun with deer and wild pigs, the government paying a premium for their destruction, as they invade the pastures of the sheep and eat the grass. Sheep raising is the principal industry of New Zealand. Dairying is also of great importance, very fine butter being produced.

The lakes are unusually beautiful, with high snow capped mountains all around them, and banked with a heavy growth of feathery tree ferns.

The Maoris, a dark skinned people, were the aborigines of New Zealand. They are today a highly cultured and educated race, intermarrying with the whites.

The glow worm caves in the northern island are often spoken of as the eighth wonder of the world. White lime formations, millions of years in the making, hold one spellbound. Glistening stalactites, stalagmites and what appear to be sculptured figures are formed by the slowly dripping water. It is said to take 30 years to make one cubic inch.

Billions of glowworms about an inch and one half long, cover the walls of the cave. Tiny discs on the tail are turned on when the worm in hungry to attract insects and glows with a pale silvery light. A spider-like beaded, sticky thread hangs from the body and on this the prey is caught up into a hammock-like pocket and thus nourishment is obtained.

Great waterfalls, lakes and rushing rivers are to be found underground in these mammoth caves and very fine and beautiful fish are plentiful in the waters of these glorious islands.

Mrs. Margaret Manuela Buelna passed away at her home here yesterday after a lingering illness. The deceased was an old pioneer of the state having been born in San Francisco nearly ninety years ago, during the mission period, that romantic era of California history, so dear to every Californian.

As a little girl she attended mass at Mission Dolores and was acquainted with missionary fathers and was a belle at the presidio in the fifties. Mrs. Buelna saw Colonel Fremont when he came to San Francisco in 1846 and remembered the famous soldier as she saw him on his beautiful white horse as he rode at the head of his coherts as they entered the famous fort.

Mrs. Buelna erected the first dwelling at the presidio living within the shadows of that institution for many years, watching San Francisco grow from a village of a few shacks to a mighty city. When she grew old she loved to tell of those happy, carefree days of the distant past; she liked to dwell on that period of her life, finding comfort and consolation in the twilight of her career in recalling the many incidents and stories of her girlhood on the green hills of her natice city

Her husband died a few years ago at the age of 86. Both were Californians. Buelna was born in an adobe house on the brink of San Francisquito creek, close to the Stanford campus, spending his boyhood there on a portion of the big grant owned by his mother. It was on the front steps of the ancient adobe that President Hoover courted his wife, Lou Henry. The great romance of his life began there.

Mrs. Buelna was an interesting woman, well posted on the early history of California, of which she was a part. Mrs. Buelna was one of the few in the state surving the missionary period. Her passing is a loss to those who were interested in her stories of the past as she told them in her inimitable way. She is survived by two sons, Frank Buelna, James Farmin, and a daughter, Mrs. W. Bellcourt.

The funeral is to take place tomorrow morning at 9:30 o'clock from the residence, and from there the cortege will proceed to the Church of the Nativity. Interment will be in Holy Cross cemetery.

Dr. Giannini to be Executive Ch'rm'n Bank of America

The election of Dr. A. H. Giannini, who is to retire as chairman of the board of the Bank of America N. A. of New York, to the chairmanship of the executive committee of the Bank of America N. T. & S. A. of California, was announced yesterday. Dr. Giannini will assume the duties of his new office in the near future.

Arnold J. Mount, president of the bank, in announcing Dr. Giannini's appointment, stated he was happy to see him rejoin the institution of which he was first a member in 1908. Mount stated that the wide acquaintance of Dr. Giannini, both in northern and southern California, as well as his close relations with banking interests throughout the country, make him a logical choice as chairman of the bank's executive committee. Mount recalled the prominent part that Dr. Giannini has played in the financing of the motion picture industry.

"As a native of Santa Clara county and as a resident of California for many years," Mount said, "Dr. Giannini brings to the bank not only a broad and intimate acquaintance with people and conditions in this state but the advantages also of the national contacts and relationships formed by him as head of the directorate of the Bank of America N. A., New York. We are happy to welcome him again to our organization."

Dr. Giannini was born in 1874, graduated from St. Ignatius College, San Francisco, in 1894, and received a medical degree from the University of California in 1896. He married Miss Leontine Denker, a member of a pioneer Los Angeles family and for a time practiced at his profession in California becoming the president of the San Francisco County Medical Society and serving as a surgeon in the Spanish-American war. He also served two terms as a member of the board of supervisors of the city and county of San Francisco, beginning about 1907. Dr. Giannini entered the service of the Bank of Italy in 1908 and was influential in effecting the inauguration of childrens' savings accounts in the public schools of California. He served as a vice-president of that bank first in charge of the San Jose branch and later of its Market street branch in San Francisco. In 1917 he moved to New York, where he became president of the East River National Bank. That institution, after absorbing a number of others, was itself consolidated with the Bank of America N. A., New York, and Dr. Giannini became chairman of the board of the latter institution, which position he has retained up to the present time.

BOUND TO BE READ

James Truslow Adams, who merited one of the Pulitzer prizes with his history of New England and whose "The Adams Family" was one of the high spots of last year's publishing lists, apparently is incapable of writing a dull book.

He has surveyed the history of this country in "The Epic of America," published by Little, Brown. It might well be called a big essay, bunched into 417 pages, rather than a history book. For Adams' purpose is to trace the origins of the various traits that combine to distinguish the American character. He strives throughout to show us how the "typical American" got that way. And he does a grand job of it.

"The Epic of America" is written with wisdom—wisdom that can be found on every page if the reader will look for it. The book has already been greeted by Allan Nevins as "the best single volume" on American history yet produced. Were it not for the fact that the Beards' masterly work, "The Rise of American Civilization," con be obtained in one volume, Nevins, estimate would stand. Perhaps it does anyway.

Rian James, the Brooklyn newspaper columnist and compiler of guide books, has given us a large splash of Broadway in his first novel, "Love Is a Racket" (Alfred H. King). The title is just a wee bit deceptive, because James has not concerned himself too much with love. He tells of the adventures of a Broadway columnist, a fellow who is a little too much of a wizard to be authentic, but suitable for fiction purposes. There are murders, gang wars, peeks at Hot Harlem, plenty of Times Square, too much of Sardi's, considerable of speakeasies and a bit of love. It is exciting reading.

The literary record of the quarter-century's correspondence between the great English actress, Ellen Terry, and the legendary figure of George Bernard Shaw, is contained in a volume edited by Miss Christopher St. John and published by Putnam's.

As the originals of the letters are and were interesting by reason of their personalities alone, so are these letters. But they take on an additional meaning and distinction in their own right, for they evidence a literary style that makes them more than good reading.

Of the background of the correspondence, little need be said here. Shaw, the carefully quixotic mixture of propagandist humbug and artistic integrity, met her only a few times in all the 25 years they wrote to each other.

William Roughead is a Scotsman with an abiding interest in famous British criminal trials and "Bad Companions" (Duffield and Green), his latest book, is a record of some of the most unusual court proceedings he has found. As pointed out in an introduction by Hugh Walpole, Roughead makes no effort to pry into the psychological twists and turns of these "old tales" but he presents the stories with such clearness and detail that the reader may try his own hand at diagnosing mental ills, if he so desires. "The Monster" is one of the oddest of the cases but, perhaps, "The Siren and the Sorseress" is the most interesting.

Hamlin Garland is just about the last leaf upon the literary tree of the 'eighties and 'nineties, and a sturdy, living tree it was, what with Walt Whitman, Thomas Bailey Aldrich, Dean Howells, Frank Norris, Mark Twain and similar venerables producing fruit. And it may be that Garland's latest offering will be scorned as somewhat insipid compared with the biting tang of modern "literature." But that doesn't alter the fact that in "Companions of the Trail" (Macmillan) he at once sets an example for today's writers and provides a picture of a past age which we may consider ourselves fortunate to have possessed.

Garland is a little garrulous, but one excuses it in an elderly gentleman of his history and attainments. He is a little satisfied with himself and his accomplishments, with his little dinners with Theodore Roosevelt, his friendship for the old masters, but he has a right to be. He may be naive. He is never smug. If today's authors would read his new book the operation might produce a welcome, sobering effect.

Farmers Fill Silos With Corn

HOLLYWOOD'S FILM SHOP

HOLLYWOOD Cal., Oct. 8—(UP)—Paramount executives rushed around tearing hair during a scene in Ruth Chatterton's "Once a Lady." And all because it took an hour to locate a cricket. Said cricket was was chirping and the chirp wasn't called for in the script. Every time the microphones were turned off it cost money—as Paramount pays Miss Chatterton quite a nice salary. A prop boy located and dispatched the cricket—earning a nice bonus.

A child in La Rue, Ohio recently sent Nancy Carroll a $1 bill and asked the star for a "picture de lux." A few days later an airmail letter from La Rue requested the money back. Miss Carroll returned the $1 and sent along a picture.

A school teacher in the east has devised a way to interest her pupils in drawing. The kids copy pictures of film celebrities. Helen Twelvetrees, RKO actress, received 64 drawings of herself with a request to please autograph and return them to the teacher, who in turn, was to give the pictures to the young artists.

"Lady With a Past" is Constance Bennett's next. It is an adaption from the Harriet Henry novel by Austin Parker. Edward H. Griffith is the director.

Daphine Dollard, Universal Studio commedienne has 25 weeks of vaudeville scheduled for the middle west and east beginning October 15.

Marlene Dietrich and Phillips Holmes recently signed new Paramount contracts. "Shanghai Express" is next for Miss Dietrich, with Josef Von Sternberg directing. Holmes will appear in "The Man I Killed," an Ernest Lubitsch production.

Hollywood has just awakened to the fact that it entertained a prince of Belgium and failed to do the well known honors because said prince was incognito.

Prince Charles of Belgium, traveling as John Doe, or some other alias, buzzed around the film center seeing and hearing things with a young man from the Belgium legation in Washington.

It is now known that they quietly took in most of the cafes and other places where things are supposed to happen in Hollywood. But they did not go in for the usual routine entertainment meted out to royalty and prominents of civilian life.

The prince took away one kind of a record when he and his companion headed east. He was just about the only member of a royal house, if not the only one, who ever came to Hollywood and wasn't entertained by Mary Pickford and her husband, Doug Fairbanks.

Usually one can stumble over princes, earls, dukes and now and then a king at the Fairbanks-Pickford menage. But Prince Charles, 'tis said, never set foot within the grounds of Pickfair.

Laws Limiting Wildfowl Kill Needed in U. S.

Biological Survey Chief Gives Three Reasons for Decrease

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8—(UP)—Unless laws are enacted limiting the annual kill of wildfowl, hunters may soon face the fact of having no birds to shoot, according to Paul G. Redington, chief of the Bureau of Biological Survey of the Department of Agriculture.

On the heels of President Hoover's proclamation shortening the hunting season, Redington recently stated that America's wildfowl are "in the most precarious situation in their history." This condition he blamed partly on the drought, partly on the great numbers killed each season, and partly on the reduction of marsh areas where the birds breed.

This last factor is being partially removed by the establishment of federal migratory bird refuges. During the past two years contracts have been negotiated for acquisition of more than 111,000 acres in California, Colorado, Florida, Nebraska, North Carolina and South Carolina. Through executive orders about 65,000 acres have been set aside for like purposes in public lands in California, Montana, Nevada and Oklahoma. This gives a total of 176,000 acres in nine states.

Nevertheless, according to Redington, drastic action will have to be taken soon if the supply of game birds is to be kept up. Such action, he said, should consist of "effective regulation and limitation of the kill of the birds," which has totaled between 12,000,000 and 15,000,000 annually.

Three Telephone Workers Receive Silver Vail Medals

Learning that Gore, Va., was endangered by fire, Mr. Vannoy hurried there from Winchester, 12 miles away, took the telephone operator's place, called more help for the town, and finally removed the switchboard and equipment from the burning building and within 20 minutes established emergency telephone service in an open field. When Miss Haase was informed that a Clinton bank had been robbed, she notified local authorities and then called towns in the direction toward which the bandits had fled by automobile, and by tracing their flight from town to town and farm to farm she spread a circle of alarm by telephone which resulted in their capture and the recovery of the loot more than 50 miles from the scene of the robbery. While Mr. Strang and Edward Debro were washing windows outside the unoccupied fifth floor of a building, one side of Debro's safety belt became detached, leaving him dangling helpless below the window from one belt hook. Despite the double strain on his own safety belt, Strang hooked one side of it to the strap which held Debro and pulled him to safety. Miss Haase and Messrs. Vannoy and Strang have received national awards of silver Vail medals, and 38 bronze medals have been awarded to telephone workers throughout the country for other acts during 1930 which illustrate the public service ideals of the late Theodore N. Vail, former president of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company.

BOY SCOUT NEWS

The announcement from Scout headquarters that the patrol leaders' camp will be held at Vallecito, the San Gregorio ranch of George H. Arthur, chairman of the camp committee, over the week-end of October 17 and 18 has aroused great interest. Many troops have made reservations for their leaders. Plans have been made to care for a group of 100 Scouts. The entire conference is based on the outdoor activities. Scoutmaster Frank Frayne is the chairman of the Pow-Wow. Other members of the committee are: Burress Karmel, Noel Arthur, W. Marugg, Charles Wilson, Paul Wessel, Charles Roberts, Jack Mathison, Thomas C. Douglass, Glenn Baker, Joseph Wilson, H. Wade, and John Rhoda.

About 15 of the boy leaders from Redwood City plan to attend. The group will leave in a caravan from Scout headquarters, 1204 Burlingame avenue, Burlingame at 1:00 P. M., Saturday.

An unusually fine outdoor program has been arranged and the boys attending will bentfit very much by the new ideas to be gained.

Among the local patrol leaders planning to attend are Gordon Leighton, Will Hart, Roscoe Savage, Ralph Rhoda, Jack Weed, J. Diehl, Harry Regnart and Dick Winzler.

Troop No. 105, the American Legion word, held a very fine meeting Wednesday evening. Harry Stephens of the champion cement plant first aid team gave the boys an interesting lesson and demonstration. Then the Scouts were taken to the fire hall where Chief Ryan spoke to them on how Scouts can aid at a fire and Lawrence Wood then showed them the equipment and explained its use. The pulmotor was opened and explained to the boys and they learned about many of the useful "gadgets about the fire house.

Troop No. 105 is now leading in the inter-troop contest with 143 by 22 points.

The Sea Scouts Ship "Sea Hawk" of Oakland with a crew of 16 spent the week-end at Redwood City with the local lads. Several of the Redwood City sailors sailed outside the harbor to meet the boat and escort it to the yacht club float.

The Redwood City yacht club hospitably offered the use of its landing and clubhouse to the visitors which was graciously accepted. Cooking and sleeping quarters were established at the Scout clubhouse, though some of the boys preferred to cook and sleep aboard their launch.

The 35 foot ex-navy gig in which the Sea Hawk made the trip from Oakland attracted considerable attention from the local boys who have been trying hard to secure better equipment for their unit for a long time.

The Kiwanis Club through Geo. Erskine secured tickets for both crews to the Saturday evening entertainment. The visitors were shown about Redwood City by their brother Scouts and were especially struck by the fine high school they found here. They were given a chance to swim in the Sequoia pool at the regular Scout sunrise dip and enjoyed the swim very much.

After arranging for return visits the Sea Hawk cast off moorings and pulled out for home at 2 p. m. Sunday afternoon.

State Auto Head Making Survey Of Causes of Accidents on Roads

SACRAMENTO, October 8—(UP—What constitutes a traffic accident repeater? What makes him that way? Can he be cured of his weakness for automobie smashups?

These are some of the questions to be discussed at the traffic section meetings of the 20th annual Safety Congress and Exposition at Chicago October 12 to 16, to which California is sending E. Raymond Cato, superintendent of the California highway patrol.

"Accident proneness" is to be one of the important subjects to be discussed at the congress, and one of great importance to California. It is a known fact that a large proportion of persons who have motor crashes seem to be veritable gluttons for punishment in this respect.

A study of commercial fleet operators showed that one-third had no accidents at all. Another one-third had two accidents each, and the remainder from 3 to 10 accidents.

"If these findings represent a fair cross-section of the national automobile accident experience it certainly is high time that the matter be given the attention it deserves," said Cato.

Safety in the air is to be featured in an interesting program arranged by the aeronautics section of the council, it was announced.

California is particularly interested in the symposium of new developments in traffic law enforcement, including the uses of radio, dispatching of the motorcycle patrol, the modern plan of accident investigation and a discussion of the Pensylvania school boy patrol law.

Cato has prepared a paper for the congress on "Uses Made of Accidents Statistics in California." In this paper he will analyze the two sets of statistics kept by the department of motor vehicles, one on internal administration and the other on motor vehicle accidents and death.

PARIS STYLES

By MARY KNIGHT

PARIS, Oct. 8—(UP)—Little tufts of hair may now be sodded onto any part of a bald, or getting bald head. The coiffures have learned to blend the color and texture of hair so perfectly that is is impossible to tell where a section is real, or artificial. There is also a new method of making it stick in place, which takes its origin from the mirrors and so forth that may be stuck on a wall, or a piece of furniture, or glass and the suction of a rubber tip on the handle holds it in place. The material used for the new hair "patches" is of similar composition.

This is a fashion note that gentlemen may avail themselves of as well as women—or rather do avail themselves of every day here. A very nice cluster of curls is easily attached to the rest of the hair to cover a feminine ear left rudly to the wind when a one-sided hat is perched over the other one with only a band of velvet or ribbon or felt going around the head to hold it on. These curls can be fastened right in the hat and considered as a necessary trimming.

NATIONAL DEFICIT FACES CONGRESS UPON CONVENING

Manner of Raising Huge Sums Will Be Decided by Body Among Its First Problems in December

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8—(UP)—Whether to tax or borrow is a question that will command major importance in the next Congress. The administration's position is described as being open-minded at the moment, but it is expected that President Hoover will have resolved upon his course before sending his annual message to Congress.

The issue is precipitated by the existence of a deficit or the year ending June 30 of nearly $1,000,000,000, the prospect o one even larger or the current year, and the possibilty of a third one of about the same size or the following year, unless new revenues are created.

Sales Tax Advocated

Senator David A. Reed, Republican, Pa., member of the senate finance committee, is advocating a general sales tax.

"Unless we cut expenses materially below what they are now, we will soon be facing a $3,000,000 deficit and our borrowing capacity will be seriously impaired," he said. "I hope we can make reductions enough to avoid tax increases but it looks doubtful to me."

Senator James E. Watson, Republican senate leader, on the contrary is opposed to new taxes. He believes this would be a mistake in a presidential year. Some other high party leaders have expressed themselves privately the same way.

Tax Attempts Planned

Yet majority opinion is that aggressive attempts will be made to force through tax legislation regardless of what the administration's attitude may prove to be. All revenue legislation must originate in the house and the rules are such that it practically must be recommended by the house ways and means committee before it can see the light of day on the house floor.

As the control of this committee depends upon which party controls the house, its course is impossible to forecast. However, the probabilities are that the committee will hold hearings and let various plans be proposed and then consider whether to recommend tax legislation.

In any event sharp debate is expected not only over this issue, but the important related one as to where the additional burden, if there is to be one, shall fall. Progressives generally are strongly in favor of increasing the higher income brackets, the inheritance tax and of reviving the gift tax. They have just gained an ally from an unexpected source in Rep. Isaac Bacharach, Republican, N. J., influential member of the house ways and means committee, a man of considerable wealth.

Secretary of Treasury Mellon on the other hand, favors, "broadening the base" taxes, extending the sales tax such as now applies to cigarettes, and depending less on income and capital gains taxes. President Hoover is understood to share this view to some extent, though in both instances the views concern long-range tax revision rather than any emergency growing out of current deficits.

TANFORAN RACING NEWS

Fans like a horse that has sufficient "foot" to go right out on the head end, and set a sparkling pace for the slower beginners. Satin Spar, which has arrived at Tanforan, is of that type. The chestnut gelding came west in Willard Mack's Bill Bee Stable and apparently will be in the "pink" for the opening at Tanforan, Friday, November sixth.

Trainer Al Jones brought Satin Spar to Tanforan from Lincoln Fields, where his "champ" had been contesting with the best handicap performers. It is planned to nominate Satin Spar for the rich stakes to be run at Tanforan at the coming session. The clever two year old Sun's Son was also in the shipment.

Satin Spar has won nine races this year and after a month's rest here undoubtedly will be in the form that made him such a consistent winner early in the year. Lately he has been battling valiantly enough but unluckily could not finish better than second behind such clever ones as Pittsburgher and Don Leon. Wherever he goes, he is saddled to compete with the highest class of horses.

The good galloper can turn on at any distance from six furlongs to a mile and a sixteenth or a little farther and on that account is a very valuable animal. He is a phenomenal racer in sloppy footing and on occasion has run almost as fast in the ooze as on a dry track.

The blood lines of the Satin one are of particular interest to Californians as his sire, imported White Satin, is from Jean's Folly, a daughter of Ayrshire. The Ayrshire strain was made use of extensively at the Napa Stock Farm, of the late A. B. Spreckels. Solitaire II, a stock horse that stood at Napa for many years, was by Ayrshire. It will be recalled Ayrshire was by Hampton, a line that is still going strong. Satin Spar gets the desirable blood of the great St. Simon through Uiranda, his dam, which is by the St. Simon horse Rabelais.

Charles A. Hartwell, who has been breeding fleet runners and sending them to the races for a number of years, is on the way to the Hawaiian Islands to "take up" a large band of young thoroughbreds. The youngsters, twenty five in all, will arrive shortly before the opening of the fall meet at Tanforan, Friday, November sixth.

The Pleasanton sportsman plans to start some of "Kanakas' 'toward the middle of the approaching race session, as they have been thoroughly broken to bridle and saddle at their foaling place, the Parker ranch. The yearlings in the lot are expected to get to the post at the spring meet at Tanforan. Nearly all of the gallopers have the Sweep horse Rodgers as Sire.

Hartwell has Desert Sun, Phum Penh, and others here for the opening at Tanforan. They were campaigned on Eastern tracks in the summer and accounted for a number of high class events. Phum Penh made a new track record at Dovonshire and Desert Sun was so good no other two-year old owner would oppose the Easter Bells gelding at Riverside Park and the "Sun" had to run against members of the mature division.

Ever a booster for Tanforan, Hartwell talked to many Easterners about making the shipment to the San Bruno course. He said:

"I saw "Dick" Carman, trainer of Nevada Stock Farm string and he told me Mr. Wingfield had written to him about racing at Tanforan. Carman was considering the matter and it would not surprise me if he had Hygro and other good ones at Tanforan."

"Ray Pollard has never been in the West but is keen to make the trip this fall. He has done well with Uluniu, a son of Rodgers, and others. He is thinking of racing at Tanforan and then giving his horses a rest."

Hygro, stakes winner at Hawthorne and Lincoln Fields, is champion of the two-year olds in the Middle West, just as the filly Top Flight is the best of the young ones on the New York tracks.

Unemployment Insurance Due For Discussion

Expected To Be One of First Problems Offered Congress

By RAYMOND CLAPPER

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8—(UP)—The first serious discussion of unemployment insurance in Congress is expected to take place during the coming session, a debate which may eventually decide whether the government is to adhere to its traditional policy of leaving unemployment problems to individuals and industries, or embark upon a program of public control.

The force of the arguments for unemployment insurance and of all emergency relief proposals will depend somewhat upon the outcome of the fund raising campaign to be started by community chests and other local agencies October 19. If an adequate total is raised, the administration's contention that local agencies are able to take care of their problems will be materially strengthened and the pressure on Congress for relief less severe.

In any event, however, bills will be introduced for full payment of the veteran adjusted compensation certificates, for creation of a federal unemployment insurance fund, and countless measures of similar nature.

Immediate full payment of bonus certificates has been urged by the Veterans' of Foreign Wars. The American Legion voted against full payment of the certificates at its Detroit convention. There is slighly more than $2,000,000,000 outstanding in bonus certificates, which would be redeemed under such procedure.

Unemployment insurance will have harder going as it is still supported chiefly by a small group of progressives. To large numbers it is the "dole" against which President Hoover has warned so frequently.

Most federal unemployment insurance plans propose one-third of the contributions alike shall come from workers, employers and the federal government.

Senator Robert M. LaFollette, Republican, Wis., is expected to advance the proposal which will be supported by the senate insurgents.

Reno Prefers Blondes for Game Boosters

Employed at Casinos to Stimulate Play at Tables

RENO, Nev., Oct. 8—(UP)—Kiwanians and Rotarians in Reno have severe competition in the "booster business."

When any one in "The biggest little city in the world" speaks of a "booster" he is not referring to the Chamber of Commerce , or the luncheon clubs, but of that organization whose membership is carefully guarded from public scrutiny.

Visitors to Reno, who are strange to the ways of gambling, are impressed by the large number of people who are to be found nightly seated at the various games of chance.

The sang-froid with which these individuals place their bets seldom fails to excite the imagination of the onlooker. Oftentimes when the visitor sees another player having an "unusual streak of good luck," the temptation arises to follow the fortunate operator and possibly make a killing by "stringing along."

Boosters may be either men or women. Blondes are preferred among the latter sex.

Reno gambling houses employ these boosters to promote activity or keep the play going. They work on regular shifts and earn about $4 per day. During the last session of the legislature, boosters in Las Vegas gaming casinos complained that they were working 14 and 15 hours a day and receiving only $2 per day.

The boosters play with the firm's money. If they lose, they are not out of pocket, and their "winnings" must be returned to the house.

COPS LIVE UP TO PRAISE

SOMERVILLE, Mass., (UP)—Boston's traffic commissioner, Joseph A. Conry, praised the efficiency of Somerville police. A week later his automobile was halted here for infraction of a traffic rule.

STOCKRIDGE, Wis., (UP) — A "rock" which has stood for more than 45 years on the lawn of George Heller's farm is believed to be a meteorite worth $1,000 or more.

BROADWAY AND SIDE STREETS

By JACK GRAVER
United Press Drama Editor

NEW YORK, Oct. 8—(UP)—The dramas continue to file into Broadway, two or more a week, but almost everyone would be willing to trade the lot for one real play.

Most of the plays so far have been presented by reputable producers, they have been splendidly mounted, and the casts have been unusually competent. But the playwrights haven't held up their end, with the result that most of the productions don't seem to matter.

Even the Theatre Guild disappointed with its production of "He" by the French dramasist Alfred Savior. It is a play with an excellent idea, which probably lost something in translation, but which appears to have suffered a great deal more from a bad job of directing.

"He" is a satire on atheism, involving delegates to a meeting of a society of freethinkers at a Swiss mountain hotel. The delegates abolish God, only one man voting against such action. This man is a stranger whom no one knows. When asked to identify himself, he replies simply that he is God. The others take him for a lunatic, but when an avalanche threatens to destroy the hotel they appeal to him as the Deity to save them. They are saved through more earthly means, however, and "He" loses confidence in himself when he falls in love and is jilted. The man is, of course, an escaped lunatic.

Such a play requires a light touch. Since the cast contains such able players as Claude Rains, Tom Powers, Eugene Powers, Edith Meiser, Violet Kemble Cooper and Cecil Yapp, much of the blame must be laid to Chester Erskine, who directed the play.

W. Somerset Maugham seems to grow a little weary of writing for the theatre. His latest play "The Breadwinner," is a tiresome piece which brings little credit to this distinguished British author. There are a couple of hours of uninteresting dialogue about a middle-aged London stock broker who gets sick of it all, gives his family several thousand pounds takes a few himself and starts out to find a new life.

Maugham shows his characters up for what they are and they are pretty unexciting persons. The expected brilliant bits of Maughan dialogue do not materialize, and since nothing else happens the play never gets up steam. Messmore Kendall produced the play with such fine actors as A. E. Matthews, Marie Lohr, Betty Linley and Eric Cowley.

Wake Up Your Liver Bile —Without Calomel

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent a substitute. 25c at all stores. © 1931, C. M. Co.

GOPHERS WILL GIVE STANFORD HARD FIGHT DECLARES POP WARNER

Crisler's Men To Meet L. S. J. U. Saturday; Held to 0-0 Tie Last Game

Look out for Minnesota! This is the cry which has reached the ears of Pop Warner from many Middle Western scources in the last 2 weeks.

Coach Crisler and his Gopher eleven invade the Stanford Stadium Saturday afternoon for the second game of a home and home arrangement and Cardinal supporters still get a headache when they recall the first contest in Minneapolis last October. Stanford was an overwhelming favorite to win and many critics expected a comfortable margin but staunch defensive measures kept the Minnesota goal line clear and the result was a 0-0 tie.

The Gophers will have a decided edge on weight Saturday. Crisler's line averages approximately 194 pounds to the man while the Indian forward wall will average approximately 187. A 7 pound disadvantage to the man, in the line, will cause Warner's team plenty of trouble. The Minnesota backs average a little more than 179 pounds per man and the redskins average 175. Team averages are Minnestoa—189, Stanford—182.

Nor is weight the only asset of the visitors. Minnesota has a fast charging and hard blocking line. In Captain Clarence Munn, the Gophers have one of the best guards in the country on both defense and offense. Munn does the kicking and makes a fine job of it. This big fellow, who weighs 217, boots them far and wide and last year helped greatly in keeping the Indians from scoring. That Stanford will not push the Minnesota tacklers around is evident from the fact that the regulars—Marshall Wells and Pat Boland—weigh 202 and 215, respectively.

The 1931 Gophers are a much more dangerous offensive machine than the 1930 edition the redshirts met. Minesota was playing only her third game under Crisler last season and now the players are thoroughly grounded in the former Chicagoan's system. Jack Manders, 205 pound fullback, who looked great as a sophomore last season, has developed so fast that the Middle West is hailing him as a second Bronko Nagurski. Nagurski was one of the greatest football players in Minnesota history. Manders is a powerful line bucker and blocker. For speed threats, the Gophers have Pete Somers and Kenneth MacDougall, quarterbacks; and Walter Hass and Myron Ubl, halfbacks. Quentin Burdick is a great blocking back who plays an important part in the Gophers attack. Somers, Ubl, and McDougall shone brilliantly in Minnesota's 20-0 victory over the powerful Oklahoma Aggies last Saturday. The Minnesota party left Minneapolis immediately after the Aggie game and arrived in Oakland Tuesday.

Plenty of good tickets near midfield for the Minnesota-Stanford football game remain on public sale in San Francisco, Oakland, and on the peninsula, according to Alfred R. Masters, General Manager of the Stanford Board of Athletic Control. Tickets may be purchased at the following places: San Francisco—H. S. Crocker, Montgomery street; Roos Brothers, both stores; A. G. Spaldings; Hastings; Radio Stations KPO and KFRC. Oakland—Roos Brothers and A. G. Spaldings. Berkeley—Roos Brothers. San Mateo—Darcy's Sport Shop. Redwood City—Gardiners. San Jose—Roos Brothers and Springs. Palo Alto—Roos Brothers and Widmans.

France Places Vines Second in Tennis

PARIS, Oct. 8—(UP)—The official ranking of world tennis stars by the French Lawn Tennis Federation, as published in Paris places Henri Cochet at the top, but gives the United States five places among the first ten, Britain and France two and Japan one.

Youthful Ellsworth Vines, of California, gets the place of honor, second to Cochet largely because of his successful quest of the American national honor and in spite of the fact that he did not appear at Wimbledon or Auteuil.

After naming those two, the French experts went through the scores of best players and picked this "big ten":

1. Cochet, France.
2. Vines, United States.
3. Perry, Great Britain.
4. Austin, Great Britain.
5. Shields, United States.
6. Sidney Wood, United States.
7. Borotra, France.
8. Jiro Satoh, Japan.
9. Van Ryn, United States.
10. Lott, United States.

Followed by Menzel, Cermany: Boussus, France; Doeg, U. S.; Hughes, Britain; De Stefain, Italy.

The ranking of Perry and Austin above the Wimbledon finalists, Sheilds and Wood, may arouse considerable comment, but can be explained by the performances of Sheilds and Wood in the Davis Cup inter-zone final in Paris, which the English took from America. Sheilds was in bad form in that match, losing to Austin although he beat Perry.

Wood beat Perry and Hughes at Wimbledon, but lost to Austin and Perry in the avis Cup and lost again to erry at Newport.

Borotra's slipping was very evident during the past season but the Basque wizard is still so good indoors that he must keep his place among the first ten for another year at least.

Sequoia to Play Burlingame in 1st League Contest

Hard-Fought Game Expected In Cherokee-Panther Bout On Sequoia Turf

Opening their first Peninsula Athletic League game this week, the Sequoia high football team will meet Burlingame on the local turf today. As both teams are favored to win first place in the league a good contest should be forthcoming.

Burlingame captured the P. A. L. championship last term and is favored to have the edge over other league squads this season. Much Panther material remains from last year's team to begin the contest this year. Their victories over Mission and Lowell, both strong San Francisco teams, give strong evidence of a powerful Burlingame squad. The Red and White gridders, in fact, have lost only one contest this season and that to the Polytechnic gridders, rated as San Francisco'e best.

Suffering only one defeat, rendered at the hands of the Menlo prep eleven, Sequoia presents a formidable object for the Burlingame team to overcome. There is a possibility that the tide will turn in favor of the Cherokees.

Roland Craven, fullback on the Indian team, has proved himself to be one of the strongest threats in the Cherokee line-up. His performances in past tussles have featured him as a hard driving, shifty, speedy ball carrier and a good tackler, using much vitality and effort in all of his plays. Though only 5 feet, 7 inches tall, Craven's low, shifty style of running has dampened several of Sequoia's opponents' hopes for a triumph.

1918—Eternal

Top Flight, a daughter of Dis Donc-Flyatit, won recognition as the turf's two-year-old champion of 1931 by capturing the rich Belmont Futurity and several other important juvenile stakes.

Top Flight's victory in the Futurity ranks as one of the greatest in the history of that classic as the filly carried a crushing impost of 127 pounds. No other filly ever carried that much weight and won the Belmont Futurity. In 1927 Anita Peabody carried 124 pounds and captured the race, but no other filly has ever been able to carry within eight pounds of Top Flight's weight and race to victory. Top Flight is owned by C. V. Whitney.

As a rule two-year-old champions hardly ever develop into prominent three-year olds. The exceptions to this rule on the American turf are Man O' War, Morvich and Reigh Count, three of the greatest three-year olds of all time. Man O' War lost only one race in his career. Reigh Count won the Kentucky Derby after his many triumphs as a juvenile. Morvich also won the Kentucky Derby after gaining recognition as a two-year old champion.

Thus Hygro and Burning Blaze, colts which were not quite as good as Top Flight as two-year olds, may turn out to be better three-year olds. Burning Blaze owned by the Valley Lake Stables, scored notable victories in the Post and Paddock Stakes at Arlington and the $20,000 Eastern Shore Handicap at Harve de Grave, defeating Hygro in the latter race.

Other good two-year olds were Tick On, Liberty Limited, Sweeping Light, Morfair, Osculator and Polonaise.

Philadelphia Shop Can Fill Many Very Unusual Orders

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 8—(UP)—If you really wanted to purchase a rhinoceros horn, or a circus tent, or a set of United States naval signal flags, or a stuffed pig with six legs, or a wax figure for demonstrating an appendicitis operation, or even an elephant made out of sponges, do you have the least idea where you might get them?

There is such a place in Philadelphia.

On Second street south of Market, Benjamin Weil has conducted an old curiosity shop where things that no one apparently wants are kept in the expectation that some day some one will want them.

Take the sponge elephant for example.

When the Japanese exhibited at the Sesqui-Centennial exposition found an elephant made of luffa, a vegetable sponge, on its hands after the exhibition, it called in Weil who added it to his collection.

WOODSIDE

The primary grades of the Woodside school, under the direction of Miss Anne Duzanica, their teacher, and Miss Virginia Nordyke, cadet teacher from the State Teacers College at San Jose, have been working on an active program involving the life, customs and legends of the American Indians. Much material has been collected and will be presented by the pupils before the community on the evening of October 16, at an Indian Festival on the school grounds. All the primary children will take part in Indian songs and dances and will relate many of the things they have learned in the progress of this activity. The community is invited to come and see some of the methods employed in teaching by means of an activity program.

Miss Wylie and Mrs. Hall of the State Teachers College faculty were visitors at the school on Wednesday.

Mrs. George Cadwallader is having built an extensive addition to her home here. Beside that she is building a real log cabin for the use of her son and his friends. Situated on the edge of the creek, under the overhanging trees it will have all the atmosphere of a hermitage in the forest. It will be furnished in keeping with its exterior to resemble the camp of hunter and trapper in the Maine woods or the Canadian northwest.

Mrs. Leland John and Mrs. Willis Patterson, Woodside Girl Scout leaders, attended the surprise party tendered to Scout leaders of Sequoia Chapter at Redwood City on Monday night. The real surprise of the affair was the hay-ride and steak dinner at Happy Valley.

B'game Firemen Are All "Fired"

Volunteer Department Fund Tied Up by Council In Retaliation

All members of Burlingame's volunteer fire department were dismissed from the department Monday evening, and the city has been since then relying on six paid firemen for its fire protection. The dismissal was for insubordination, following the action of the volunteer firemen in striking when a member of the department who had been dismissed by the chief, was re-instated by the city council.

The cause of the row was when Chief Dessen o fthe Burlingame department discharged Fred Strebel on the grounds that he was "playing politics" and carrying tales.

Dessin, however, was notified that he had exceeded his authority and usurped the authority of the fire commission. The city council backed up the majority of the commission, re-instated Strebel and reduced his punishment to a reprimand and a fine of one week's pay.

To this the volunteers objected and said that if Dessin was not upheld they would leave the department.

The resolution was passed at a special meeting of the Burlingame fire commission, and with it was passed a resolution which was sent to all banks and which prohibited the banks from turning over to any member of the department the funds deposited by the department. The department has about $7000 deposited, it is understood.

This resolution by the commissioners follows:

"Whereas certain funds in the name of the Burlingame Fire department have been deposited in several places as a fund to be used for the widows and orphans of members of the fire department, and

"Whereas the said funds were collected from various citizens in the city of Burlingame for that purpose, and

"Whereas we learn that there is a disposition on the part of some of the members of the Burlingame fire department to relinquish said funds from the various places where they are depsited and for the express purpose of dividing same among the members of the department.

"Now therefore, be it resolved by the city council of the city of Burlingame that a copy of this resolution be sent to the fire department and to each place where these funds are deposited with express direction that these funds are not to be withdrawn for any other purpose than that for which they solicited, and that there is no right on the part of any member or members of the Burlingame fire department to claim such as his individual right for his private use.

"Be it further resolved that this resolution is given as a notice that if any funds are relinquished by the parties holding same for the private use of the members of said department, the person or persons so relinquishing will be held by the city of Burlingame as responsible for the sums so relinquished."

Archeologist Declares Cannibals Lived in Texas

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex., Oct. 8—(UP)—Cannibals once lived in Texas, in the opinion of George C. Martin, archeologist. He said mineralized bones found in graves and kitchen middens at Rockport, Tex., near here, clearly indicated their presence.

"No such mineralized bones have been found before in America," Henry Fairfield Osborne, president of the American Museum of Natural History, said when shown some of them, Martin said. Martin has explored 280 ancient campsites along the coast.

The cannibals bathed in shark oil to discourage mosquitoes, and braided rattlesnake buttons into their hair for decoration, Martin declares. They raided inland Texas as late as 1844, he claims, and then disappeared in canoes, on which they had hoisted stolen quilts as sails. They never have been seen since.

Some of the skulls found, he said, show a low forehead, and are of the same type as the Piltdown man of early Europe.

San Francisco will soon begin the construction of a new unit at the Hassler Health Farm, San Francisco's home for tubercular patients in the hills, just west of this city. The new unit will make possible the caring for 100 more patients at the institution.

The San Francisco supervisors will approve an appropriation of $85,375 to be used for this work. This amount will be taken from the health department's building bond issue of 1929.

Arizona Chosen For Star Study

FLAGSTAFF, Arizona, October 8—(UP)—A thousand million shooting stars crash into the earth's atmosphere daily and their habits, speed, source or origin and other matters of interest are being observed by two scientists at Lowell Observatory here.

Contrary to popular belief, there is nothing dangerous about a shooting star. Fears that one might fall on your head or home are unfounded, according to Dr. E. Opick, Russian authority on meteoric astronomy, and S. L. Boothroyd, head of the department of astronomy for Cornell university.

A shooting star, visible from the earth, is mostly hot air—thus proving that modern life has no monopoly on that commodity. The stars, socalled, have been falling for ages.

The average meteor is a small particle only a fraction of a grain in weight, Dr. Boothroyd told the United Press. It is not visible until it enters the earth's atmosphere and is usually seen at an altitude of 100 miles. It disappears between 50 and 30 miles from the earth's surface.

When the foreign particle strikes the atmosphere there is intense friction and it becomes hot. So does the surrounding atmosphere. Therefore, when you see a shooting star you are viewing a small particle which is red hot and a lot of red hot air.

Long before reaching the earth, the falling star, or meteor, is consumed by heat which is the reason your head is safe, even though directly beneath the blazing ember of the heavens.

A meteor should not be confused with a meteorite which is something else again. There are millions of the former and very few of the latter. A meteorite is a larger body, sometimes a close-knit collection of many meteors. These are the visitors from the sky which defy heat, due to their size, and punch holes in the earth known as craters. Meteor Crater, just east of here, was formed by a meteorite and not by a meteor.
